

Redhill Farm Free Range Pork named in top 50

National award-winning Redhill Farm Free Range Pork has been recognised as one of the UK's '50 Food Stars' by the Secretary of State for the Environment, Food & Rural Affairs.

Elizabeth Truss MP selected Redhill Farm from hundreds of award winners in the UK food and drink industry and invited founders Jane and Terry Tomlinson to the launch of DEFRA's '50 Food Stars' initiative in London recently, which included a high-profile evening reception at No 11 Downing Street.

As a Defra '50 Food Star' Redhill Farm has become part of a select group of like-minded quality independent food and drink businesses sharing experience and ideas and gaining support from world-leading experts and entrepreneurs in the UK food and drink industry.

MD Jane Tomlinson said: "We are incredibly proud to be considered as one of the rising stars in the UK food industry. Terry and I had an amazing day meeting many like-minded producers, many of whom we already knew as fellow national award winners. The launch was a great day of celebration of the achievements and successes of Britain's independent food and drink producers, as well as plenty of inspiration to look to the future."

Jane Tomlinson pictured far right at the Downing Street reception